Joseph E. Marshall, Ph.D. is a nationally recognized public speaker, community activist, author and radio host. Tired of losing kids to violence and drugs, he left the classroom, earned an additional degree and began developing programs with the goal of preventing violence. Dr. Marshall is the founder of the Alive and Free Movement and the founder and president of Street Soldiers National Consortium. He is the co-founder and Executive Director of the San Francisco-based Omega Boys Club/Street Soldiers and oversees the Omega Leadership Academy for academic and life skills education, the Omega Training Institute on violence prevention and Street Soldiers Communications, which hosts a nationally syndicated radio talk show.

Alan Rowe and his wife Donna founded the United College Action Network (UCAN), Inc. in 1988 and have been like a one-family catalyst for students to attend a four-year Historically Black College and Universities (HBCU). Under the leadership of Dr. Rowe, U-CAN has created successful educational partnerships, support, outreach, mentoring programs and services throughout California as well as the United States. U-CAN provides leadership, services and assistance to students who wish to gain enrollment in a four-year Historically Black College or University (HBCU). Since 1988 more than 56,000 students have received assistance from U-CAN. Additionally, more than 15,000 seniors have been accepted and 6,000 students have received scholarships. In total U-CAN has acquired more than $54,000,000 in scholarship monies on behalf of students.
